They exist. It's a very small percentage of rooftop solar companies, but it would be a lie to pretend there aren't any and there's nothing to worry about.

A quick online search can help you see if there are any stories in the news or settlements involving the solar company you're looking to work with for your installation.

Solar power stands out as a bright prospect in the ever-evolving landscape of renewable energy. It's an eco-friendly alternative and a potential source of savings for homeowners. Like any industry ...

These scams start with an unexpected phone call, message on social, or even an in-person visit. The so-called official offers you an "energy audit" to reduce your utility costs. Or they might try to sign you ...

Genuine incentive programs and reputable solar energy contractors do exist. Before you accept an unsolicited offer, do some research on solar companies in your area.

I'm sure it is a company selling solar power solutions, but it is very misleading, making it sound like something affiliated with PG& E or the PUC when it is not and I could see many people...

If you've been approached by someone offering to install solar panels at no cost or promising you'll never have to pay another electricity bill, be careful--it's likely a scam."

SEATTLE -- Scammers across the U.S. are going door-to-door, pitching "free" solar energy systems. Many homeowners never get any solar equipment installed; those who do often get ...
